Dean, College of Arts and Sciences

Dear «Salutation»,

Because of you, our arts and sciences students have access to a stunning depth and breadth of opportunities, where they forge connections across disciplines, learn critical thinking, and ultimately, build a foundation for lifelong success.

No matter where you give, your investment in public higher education is a transformative force that supports the remarkable range of teaching and learning that takes place here every day. Your support of the Department of «GIFT_ALLOC_DEPT» helps to make this rich spectrum of experiences possible.

On behalf of the College of Arts and Sciences, thank you for your gift to the «ALLOCATION_NAME».

Sincerely,

Robert C. Stacey
Dean, College of Arts and Sciences

Dear «Dean_Salutation» «Salutation»,

You are opening doors to discovery and making dreams come true with your recent gift to the «Allocation».

Private support like yours makes a world of difference. In the words of Taylor Valentine, the brilliant young scientist and educator featured on this card, "Were it not for scholarships, I would not be attending the UW. The scholarships that I have received have allowed me to unlock my full potential and live a life that I never even dreamed possible. No matter what you are giving to, you are ultimately supporting the success of students like me."

Thank you for your generous support, and for all that you make possible on behalf of our academic community.

Sincerely,

Robert C. Stacey
Dean, College of Arts and Sciences

Dear «Salutation»,

As Dean of the College of the Arts and Sciences, I am continually impressed by the accomplishments of our academic community. And it is because of people like you – generous donors to the faculty, students and programs within the College – that we achieve so much. The graduate featured on this card is just one of the many reasons that your support matters.

Thank you for your gift to the «Allocation_Name» in the Department of «Department». Your support of the liberal arts creates opportunities that reverberate both inside and outside our campus, making a meaningful difference in the world.

I am proud of all that is accomplished within the College of Arts and Sciences. Most of all, I am grateful for dedicated supporters like you, whose generosity makes so much possible. Thank you again for your gift.

Sincerely,

Robert C. Stacey

Dear Salutation/Dean's Salutation,

I am delighted to acknowledge your recent gifts to the Department of History, including your pledge payments to the Endowed Scholarship in History, the Fund for Excellence in History, and the Friends of History.

In this, your 40th year as donors to the University of Washington, it is a pleasure to share my gratitude with you for all that you have done, and all that you continue to do, to enhance the work of the College of Arts and Sciences and the Department of History. You are true benefactors of this institution, for which I am deeply grateful.

Thank you for your gifts, and for all you do to advance the mission of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Sincerely,

Robert C. Stacey

Dear Salutation/Dean's Salutation,

It is with a sense of immense gratitude that I write to you today. I just learned of your testamentary commitment to the University of Washington, and wanted to send you my heartfelt thanks. The College of Arts and Sciences is profoundly honored by the depth of your personal commitment to support programs, faculty members, and future generations of students.

You have devoted so much of your lives to benefit others through teaching, research, and philanthropy, and I hope you know that you are widely recognized here as two of the warmest, most optimistic and giving people we know. You have my deepest admiration and appreciation for all that you have done, and all that you continue to do, to support our academic community. Your shared legacy at the University of Washington is already extraordinary, and it will only continue to grow.

Along with your friends across campus, I look forward to recognizing and celebrating this news. Thank you for your friendship and generosity, and for all you do to make our world a better place.

Sincerely,

Robert C. Stacey

Dear Dr. Doe,

As the daughter of highly esteemed University of Washington alumnus, First Name Last Name, Ph.D., I am writing to share my gratitude with you for his generous bequest to the University of Washington's Department of Economics.

We recently received the final distribution from his estate, and wish to gratefully acknowledge the remarkable legacy established by your father through the First Name Last Name Endowed Professorship in Economics. On behalf of the College of Arts and Sciences and the Department of Economics, please accept our deepest appreciation.

The fund was initially established to provide support to department faculty and visiting lecturers, with the intention create an endowed professorship in the future. I am delighted to share that the final estate gift allowed us to make this change. The Endowed Professorship in Economics will support prestigious faculty within the Department in Dr. Last Name's name, and allow the Department to honor and retain key faculty members.

We are honored to have been included in Dr. Last Name's estate plans, and proud to preserve his name and remarkable history in perpetuity through this endowment.

Sincerely,

Robert C. Stacey

Dear Salutation/Dean's Salutation,

I was saddened to hear of John's passing in March, and wanted to let you know that you and your family have my deepest condolences.

John is remembered throughout the UW and the College of Arts and Sciences with a tremendous amount of warmth and respect. We appreciate the legacy he built over the years as a teacher, a researcher, and in his many leadership roles in establishing a strong foundation for the ongoing success of the College and the Department of _____. He was an important presence on campus for many years, and the College of Arts and Sciences is honored to have been a part of his life. His legacy will be carried on through the lives he touched in his roles here, from professor to Chair, and through the outstanding faculty and students supported by the John Doe endowments.

The dedication and generosity that both of you have shown to your diverse interests across the University has inspired our academic community in so many ways, and that will always be part of his legacy here.

Please accept my sympathies on behalf of his many friends in the College of Arts and Sciences.

Sincerely,

Robert C. Stacey

Dear Salutation/Dean's Salutation,

In this, your 21st year as University of Washington supporters, your dedication continues to inspire us all. We recently received the proceeds from the sale of your property, and I am writing in grateful recognition of your extraordinary generosity.

Over the last year and more, your investments in the Department of _____ have been truly remarkable. You are building on an already significant legacy – one that will continue to have an outsize impact on the department today and throughout the years to come. On behalf of the many faculty and students supported through your philanthropy, thank you!

Thank you again for your outstanding support of the Department of _____, and all that we seek to accomplish on behalf of Washington and the world.

Sincerely,

Robert C. Stacey
