HENRY SUZZALLO SOCIETY

WHAT IS THE HENRY SUZZALLO SOCIETY?

The Henry Suzzallo Society recognizes and thanks alumni and friends who support the University through a bequest in a will or living trust, charitable remainder trust, gift annuity, pooled income fund, charitable lead trust, retained life estate, or beneficiary designation on a retirement account or life insurance policy.

WHAT ARE THE FEATURES OF MEMBERSHIP?

Your name will be listed in the University's annual Report to Contributors as a member of the Henry Suzzallo Society.

You will be invited to one or more events at the University of Washington each year.

You can receive information about University programs of interest to you and have the opportunity to participate in programs you care about.

You or your advisor can consult with planned giving staff to ensure the best match between your future gift and the University's mission.

The greatest benefit, however, is the satisfaction of knowing you are supporting work that is important to you. By making a future gift you are making a difference in the lives of people in Washington and in communities far beyond the Pacific Northwest who rely on the University of Washington for excellence in teaching, research and service.

HOW CAN YOU BECOME A MEMBER?

As soon as you notify us that you have included the University in your estate plans, you become a member of the Henry Suzzallo Society.

To make sure our records accurately reflect your intentions, please fill out the membership form attached to this brochure. You may choose to have your name included in the roster of Henry Suzzallo Society members or remain anonymous.

THE HENRY SUZZALLO LEGACY

Henry Suzzallo was the 16th president of the University. During his tenure from 1915 to 1926, the University grew from a regional institution with just 3,000 students to the preeminent educational institution in the Northwest, with new buildings, new curriculum and higher standards for faculty and students. President Suzzallo often told audiences, "We are building a university of a thousand years." The Suzzallo Society embodies the spirit and commitment to excellence that were hallmarks of Henry Suzzallo's visionary leadership.
